

Efforts of Dry Officials Not To be Relaxed

Mitchell Issues Order—Wets and Drys Mapping Out Campaigns

Washington—(P)—While wet and dry organizations work to elect this fall members of congress who will represent their views, Attorney General Mitchell intends that there shall be no relaxation in federal prohibition enforcement.

The cabinet member dispatched a circular to all departmental chiefs carrying these orders. He said the department had received suggestions from "those who should know better" that "because some changes in the prohibition system are under discussion and may be adopted, the department of justice should relax its efforts to enforce the existing laws."

Mitchell's memorandum adds that a federal easing up "without substitution of any lawful state control would produce chaos and an orgy of uncontrolled excesses."

Meanwhile, Dr. Daniel A. Poling said in a statement that the Allied Forces, prohibition group, had voted to support President Hoover; the national board of trustees of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, commended the president's stand on the dry law as indicative of public "demand" for a change.

Dr. Poling said 187 of 203 national committee members and supporters of Allied Forces had voted to endorse President Hoover because of the belief that his election "will safeguard the gains made under prohibition."

Back Dry Candidate

He added that the Allied Forces "will conduct an aggressive campaign for the election of senators and representatives, whether they be Democrats or Republicans, who are against repeal and reestablishment of the old liquor traffic."

The Crusaders' trustees said they would "bead effort to secure the election of senators and representatives, both national and state, irrespective of party affiliation, who are willing to support the principles for which we stand."

Over the weekend, Henry L. Hariman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urged modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment and an immediate change in the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of "non-intoxicating beer," Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, speaking for the National Temperance bureau, said Mr. Hoover's reelection "is favored because he follows a constructive and not a destructive course" on prohibition; F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said neither presidential candidate was acceptable to the league, which would "support those candidates (for congress) who stand definitely committed to oppose to either repeal or modification."

Appleton Bound Couple In Jail at Fond du Lac

Joseph Aschenbrenner and Elizabeth Rauckha, arrested last Thursday at Fond du Lac by sheriff's deputies at a camp on Highway 41, were jailed Saturday by Judge H. J. Gabeler, Fond du Lac, to give authorities an opportunity to check up on the pair. Questioned by authorities, Aschenbrenner said the woman was his niece, and that they were on their way to Appleton to visit relatives. They said they came from Texas with $10. They carried their clothes in two small market baskets.

Make Plans for Tennis Tournament at Y. M. C. A.

W. C. Ryan, physical director of the Appleton Y. M. C. A., and Dr. R. V. Landis are making plans for a late summer tennis tournament for men. The tournament will be played on the Y courts.

Mr. Ryan and Dr. Landis are in charge of the committee to be chosen for the tournament. It is planned to start the meet about Aug. 22, with a tournament against one of the teams being held later in the season. The tournament was not held earlier this summer because of the plan, recently abandoned, to lease the Y tennis courts for a gas station and parking lot.

Man Is Arrested on Complaint of Relative

County Republicans are Recipients of $200 Gift

Notice of the payment of $200 to the Republican committee of Outagamie County, Wis., by the Honorable H. B. Benson, by Karl Stansbury, Appleton, has been filed with John E. Montanese, county clerk. The money is to be used to finance expenses of the Republican party in its primary election activities next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns, Portland, Ore., arrived here yesterday. They were called to this city by the serious illness of Mrs. J. W. Burns. E. Pacific-st. Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Burns arrived here last week from Two Harbors, Minn., and Mrs. H. A. Stecker arrived Saturday from San Francisco, Calif.

RIVALS FOR KANSAS GOVERNORSHIP

Kansans reiterated their dryness with ballots in the state's recent primary election when wet candidates trailed far behind victorious gubernatorial nominees. Landon, an independent oil operator of Independence, was given the Republican nomination for governor, and Governor Woodring again was the choice of Democrats. They'll battle it out in November with Dr. John R. Brinkley of Milford, goat gland specialist, as the third contestant, on an independent ticket.

School Desks Get Bath In Huge Cleansing Tub

The largest bathtub in Appleton is in the basement of the Jefferson school kindergarten where public school desks get their annual scrubbing in the long, oval shaped galvanized tank under the supervision of W. C. Eggert superintendent of school buildings.

The tank, full of dark swishing liquid, is large enough to hold three or four school seats at a time and more than 450 desks and seats have come through their bath in a shining condition until they look like new as they stand ready for the opening day of school in a few weeks.

All the battle-scarred and gum-stuck seats are collected in the summer and brought to the school workshop where they go through the process of rejuvenation. Worn out seats get new legs, broken down seats are fitted with new parts and rough-edged ones are sanded. Before the seats are placed in the hot water, filled with cleaning chemical, the bolts and nuts are gone over thoroughly. When they are put in the big tub they are allowed to soak for 20 minutes and then scrubbed thoroughly.

The sanding and scraping process follows and takes all rough edges from the wood. After this the desks are shellacked to give a serviceable surface to the tops and then they receive several coats of varnish. The metal parts are repainted and after the desks and seats have dried they are as good as new.

Old seats, which have been broken, are taken apart and scrapped, the useable parts kept for repairs. Kindergarten chairs go through the same process.

In the six years that desk and seat cleaning has been done by the Appleton school system, more than 2,000 seats have been cleaned and thoroughly repaired and more than 800 chairs.

According to Mr. Eggert, every school desk and seat will be in condition after next summer, and attention will then be given to school furniture as it grows old or broken.

It is estimated by Mr. Eggert that the repair of present furniture costs approximately 60 cents while a new desk costs about $6.

$300 Damage Caused by Fire in Traas Building

Fire of unknown origin caused $300 damage in a garage and warehouse in the rear of the Traas Candy Co., plant at 204 N. Richmond-st. The fire department battled the blaze for an hour before the flames were extinguished.

A large quantity of paper stock used to wrap and pack candies, and candy making machinery was destroyed. The roof of the building was damaged, and the interior badly scorched. Most of the fire was confined to the warehouse above the garage.

Aged Man Makes Table From 20,000 Pieces of Wood From Cigar Boxes

Carpentering is an art to M. W. Grant, 65, who follows his hobby by making furniture out of odds and ends of cigar boxes and spools in the small house where he lives alone on five acres of land in the town of Greenville.

His home is his workshop and it contains various sized footstools, tables and table lamps, carefully put together with thousands of pieces of cigar boxes.

Approximately 20,000 small, odd shaped pieces of wood from cigar boxes went into one square topped table which took more than two years to make. The table contains no nails since each piece was skillfully glued in place to form the four straight legs and the hinged top. The top, when opened, shows the bright lining of silk. The table stands 30 inches high.

W. C. T. U. Plans Political Action In Liquor Battle

Committee Is Named to Formulate Plans to Fight for Dry Law

Seattle—(P)—Organization of an informal committee by leaders of the Women's Christian Temperance union, in convention here, to develop a "policy of political action," indicated today that although unable to endorse either of the two major presidential candidates, the union would not remain idle while the forces of prohibition repeal seek victory.

The "political action" committee is composed of two Republicans, three Democrats, and Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin of New York city, a member of the newly formed Law Preservation party in New York state. The Republicans are Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., national president, and Mrs. Ida B. Smith, president of the Des Moines, Iowa, the Democrats are Mrs. Nellie Burger of Springfield, Mo., Mrs. Minnie Welch of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Mary Harris Armour of Atlanta.

The strategy discussed by the committee would call for election of drys to congress with the understanding they would seek to prevent passage of any resolutions to repeal or weaken national prohibition.

However, should such resolutions pass congress, then the committee believes an attempt should be made to see that state legislatures, rather than state conventions, act upon the proposed changes, feeling that conventions might be stampeded.

A telegram from Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army to the union convention, assured the union of the army's support in its stand against either the Republican or Democratic liquor plank.

Junk Dealers Ask City to Waive $10 Licenses This Year

Claiming inability to pay, eight junk dealers have filed a petition with Carl Becker, city clerk, asking that the $10 license fee for junk dealers be waived this year. The signers point out that inasmuch as the depression has resulted in the complete destruction of the junk market, and because the market value of junk is so low, it is impossible for them to receive a net return on their business.

The petition was signed by Sam Shilcock, Oscar Friedman, Sam Simionofsky, Louis Blacher, J. Golper, L. Simon, A. Kaminisky, and D. Schimovitz.

Concert Devoted To Gershwin Work

"Rumba" to be Presented First Time Tomorrow Night

New York—(P)—Despite the chronology, George Gershwin calls his new "rumba" an older brother to his 8-year-old "Rhapsody in Blue."

He wrote it and orchestrated it in three weeks and it will be played for the first time tomorrow night at the Lewisohn stadium, when the composer will receive the signal distinction—for a living man—of an entire concert devoted to his works by the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra.

"Rumba" will be a bigger brother to the Rhapsody, Gershwin said, because it is not as long, but it will be older because it will be more experienced and have many elements that were not in "Rhapsody in Blue."

Conceived as a matter of gratitude—"I thought the least I could do for a whole concert was to provide something new"—the piece will be the most modern of all his work.

He got the idea on La Frita-st. in Havana where native musicians play for the patrons of little street cafes. It is called a symphonic overture and scored for full orchestra augmented by native instruments such as the maracas (a kind of Cuban rattle), Cuban sticks, the gourd and the bongos, which is a double tom-tom.

Playing time is about nine minutes. It is based on rhythmic idioms of Cuba and the chief theme, "Sostenuito," is preceded by a lively introduction with typical rhythmic and melodic figures, Gershwin explained.

Because he will play the piano three times during the concert, Gershwin will not conduct the new piece. This will be done by Albert Coates, who also will conduct Gershwin's "Second Rhapsody" and "An American in Paris." William Daly, guest conductor, will lead the overture "The Blue Bird" and the concerto in F, "Intermezzo for President" and a medley of popular tunes.

Gershwin is 33 years old and looks even younger. He composes and paints in a penthouse apartment on Riverside drive and finds great satisfaction in both arts.

100 Passengers on Ferryboat Drown as Snake Boards Craft

Bombay—(P)—The fear of snakes, which is deep-rooted in India, was responsible for the drowning of what was estimated at more than 100 Indian ferryboat passengers near Kolkapur today.

A snake sprang from a floating log in the swollen river, landed on the boat's deck, among the passengers. Horrified, they all dashed to one side, turning the ferry over.

Part of the crew and 120 passengers reached shore, but it was believed the number was small.

Janitors are Kept Busy When Schools Are Not in Session

School janitors are kept busier in the summer time than they are when school is open, is the opinion of William Eggert, supervisor of janitors in the public schools.

The force of janitors turn into well trained housekeepers during the vacation, when they start a systematic cleaning of miles of black-board siding, thousands of square miles of floor, hundreds of windows as well as do much of the summer repair work.

Beginning with the top of each room each janitor starts working down to the floor, Mr. Eggert explained. He cleans and revarnishes seats, cleans corridors, closets, cloak rooms and finally the basement where the floors and walls are painted, furnaces repaired and paneled.

The last summer work is done to the windows which have to be cleaned on both sides.

"Work on one ceiling alone means the washing of the ceiling, washing of the picture moulding, and each electric light. This takes a great deal of time," Mr. Eggert explained.

Don't Believe All Statements Of Politicians

Find Leaders Often Take Other Side When Convention Ends

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—What politicians say before or at the nominating conventions just don't count.

What they say afterward you are expected to take seriously. It is very important for you to perceive this nice distinction because otherwise you might acquire the disrespectful idea that instead of being able to believe all the politicians some of the time and none of the politicians all of the time you really shouldn't believe any of the politicians any of the time.

There is excellent authority, both Republican and Democratic, for that double standard of political veracity.

Mr. Farley Explains

Mr. Jim Farley, the large, amiable gent who got Governor Roosevelt a presidential nomination and consequently became the Democratic national chairman, explained it clearly while buttering Boss Frank Hague of New Jersey at the recent session of Jersey Democrats, summoned to whoop for the national ticket.

Boss Hague, who has such a hard-boiled reputation that many of the hinterland delegates at the Chicago convention actually believed he had his gunner scattered through the hall, was the heart of the anti-Roosevelt fight.

Boss Hague at Chicago issued a blast which described Roosevelt as the "tweakest man." He declared that he would have "no chance of winning in November" insisted that he couldn't carry "a single state east of the Mississippi." He was one of those who refused to let the governor's nomination be made unanimous.

How Times Change!

But things are different now. Boss Hague, accustomed to carrying the state only in off years now sees a good chance to carry it in a presidential year.

Once he gets his hooks in New Jersey is likely to be Democratic for good. The thousands of federal jobs in the state are a distinct attraction and no state boss ever contemplates without horror the thought of a national administration of his own party with which he is not in close contact.

Hague doesn't explain his Roosevelt denunciation of Roosevelt. He doesn't have to. Big Jim Farley does that for him. Jim says "Hague is a clean, strong, brave fighter. Did anyone ever know of a convention where the fight was hot where there have not been exaggerated statements, fiery denunciations and bitter recriminations? Strong men, determined in purpose and convinced of the justice and sincerity of their positions, do not fence with buttoned fists."

"The favorite weapon of these combats is the declaration that our man can win and that the other candidate cannot. . . . These things are all washed up when the convention has acted."

As for Mr. Hoover

And, as Farley said, Hague's attack wasn't anything alongside what some of President Hoover's strongest supporters in this and the last campaign were saying about him prior to his nomination in 1928.

Congressman Will Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, had condemned Hoover as "unfit for a responsible position of trust"

Prices on Badger Farms 8 Per Cent Higher Last Month

Increases Partly Due to Season Rise, State Department Says

Madison — (P) — Farm prices in Wisconsin were eight per cent higher during July than in June, the crop reporting service of the state and federal departments of agriculture announced today.

This was partly due to a seasonal rise but the net percentage of increase was larger than usual, a report of the departments said. The total increase was several times the seasonal gain.

Better prices for milk, livestock, chickens and eggs led the advance. The report said: "The sharp advance in hog prices which was the largest contributor to the increase."

Farm prices for hogs in July averaged $4.20 per hundredweight as compared with the record low of $2.90 paid in June. Prices for other kinds of livestock together with chickens and egg values were notably stronger supporting the increase in hog prices.

"Wisconsin dairymen received an average price of 79 cents a hundred pounds for their product during July according to returns from crop reporters. This is a gain of two cents per hundred from the 77 cent price which ruled in June and indicates that the seasonal upturn in wholesale butter and cheese prices which came late in July had an influence on the month's milk checks. This year's June to July change in milk prices is about equal to the normal rise for this time of the year. However, the gain is only half that of last year when prices rose four cents under the influence of sharply curtailed production as a result of drought conditions in mid-west dairy areas."

Sheboygan Man Fined For Passing Arterial

Calvin Matzke, Mission House college, Sheboygan, paid a fine of $1 and costs Saturday night for passing an arterial sign at the intersection of N. Richmond-st. and W. Wisconsin-ave. He paid the fine and costs at the police station and returned to Sheboygan Saturday night.

As "the most expensive luxury that was ever fastened on the country."

Senator Fess of Ohio, later national chairman, said Hoover's "Americanism was in question." Borah of Idaho, who became chief orator of 1928, had said figures of war corporations operated by Hoover seemed to represent neither "honesty or decency."

Charlie Curtis, now running the second time as Hoover's ticket-mate, said just before the 1928 nomination that the party "would be apologizing for him from the moment of nomination."

Roosevelt and Garner Discuss Campaign Plans

Democratic Candidates Outline Speaking Tours At Conference

Albany, N. Y. — (P) — Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, left Albany for New York City and Washington today after a discussion of campaign plans with his running mate, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Albany, N. Y. — (P) — Speaker John N. Garner completed his first post-convention pow-wow with his "boss" today and prepared to go to New York City and Washington. He says he will put Democrats at the helm in Washington.

Over the breakfast coffee the vice presidential candidate continued a conference with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt that began yesterday on a hillside outside Peekskill.

Mapping of speaking itineraries was one of the topics discussed. It is now believed that the speaker will visit the east as well as the west and middle west during his campaign. A person close to Governor Roosevelt indicated the governor did not expect the speaker to get wholly to the west and middle west, but wished Mr. Garner to do some talking in the east also.

Mr. Roosevelt had finished a troop review at Camp Smith yesterday when Mr. Garner drove up and stepped into the governor's machine.

"Hello, Governor Roosevelt, you look fine," said Garner.

"Hello, Jack, how is my running partner" Roosevelt responded.

"I'm fine and you look like you've been training for a prize fight," the speaker answered.

"It's all right. Everything is all right. Sit down and we'll talk." And they did, far into the night. The traveling conference continued to Krum Elbow, the governor's home at Hyde Park, and then to the executive mansion here, where Garner was an overnight guest.

Conference Today

The speaker arranged for a conference today with James A. Farley, the national chairman.

There was no announcement concerning the outcome of the Roosevelt-Garner conference but it was understood the two men agreed they would push an active campaign, reaching as many states and larger communities as possible.

Garner voiced his attitude by saying: "Governor Roosevelt, I came here to get orders from my boss. When you give them I'll carry them out."

The speaker, it was understood, believed he should not go to the hustings before the middle of September. Roosevelt opens his road speeches next Saturday night at Columbus, Ohio.

Sept. 12 he will entrain for the middle west, the Pacific northwest, and California, returning through New Mexico and Arizona. That trip will continue until Oct. 3, ending at Buffalo, which has been tentatively chosen for the state Democratic convention.

The blunt Texan said he thought the people wanted to see the candidates.

"It's like a zoo," he jokingly observed at Hyde Park. "The people want to see the animals. They want to see this animal that's running with the governor."

Garner and Roosevelt exchanged compliments for the sound films, the governor remarking, "this looks like a pretty good team."

The speaker responded "not a bad team at all, especially for the American people."

600 MILES AN HOUR SEEN PLANE LIMIT

Langley Field, Va. — The present limit at which modern airplanes can hope to fly is about 600 miles an hour, according to tests taken at the world's highest speed wind tunnel here.

This limit has been set because of constructional limits of present day craft and it has been found that modern wing structure will not stand an air pressure above that speed.

In the air tunnel here it is possible to send a wind of about 600 miles an hour against experimental craft, and it is through this testing that the speed limit has been ascertained.

The present speed record of 400 miles an hour can be bettered by 200 miles, but above that speed it is folly to try until some new and unusual type of wing and fuselage is invented, it is said.

It Is Said--

That Carl Saen Appleton high school teacher, was up at the wind Friday when he was in a picture taken on the new 25-foot evens-on taken at the new school. The ladder opens into a 4-foot evens-on and was purchased by the school board to enable janitors in the high school and junior high schools to service the high gymnasium and auditorium lights without difficulty.

Appleton Couple Spent Three Years Decorating Clock

The interesting face and nature lore burned in design of the 29 year old grandfather clock in the Appleton Y. M. C. A. lobby brings forth many inquiries every day.

Standing high against the wall, the clock shows 37 different kinds of trees, flowers and plants in its design, made by hand in 1903 by an Appleton couple, Mr. and Mrs. Mace. The clock was given the Y. M. C. A. last year after the death of Mrs. Mace. It took three years to complete the clock. Y officials say.

Cat tails, acorns and oak leaves are intertwined in the design burned in deep brown over the entire frame of the clock with water lilies on the top of one of the lower shelves for books and roses, clover and other plant forms decorate the lower shelf. In the backboard of the shelves is the design of swans swimming along lily pads; on the sides are small scenes of a Dutch window and a two masted schooner or near shore. One part of the clock frame shows Old Mother Goose dusting cobwebs from a crescent shaped moon.

The clock face is a decorative piece showing leaves and flowers intertwined around the circular hour markings.

Democrats Will Confer Tonight

Expect to Lay Plans for Activities for Primary Campaign

Democratic committeemen and candidates for county offices will gather at 7:30 tonight for a conference at which plans for the campaign this fall will be discussed. The meeting was called by Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic committee, who will present his outline for activities before the primary on Sept. 20.

Committees will be appointed tonight to handle details for various public rallies to be held through the county between now and Sept. 20. Speakers at these rallies will include the various Democratic candidates for state offices and for the United States congressional and senatorial seats. Plans also will be made tonight for the election at the primary of precinct committeemen from every district in the county.

Just where the beer would go was an argument ahead of time. A special service in honor of the Blessed Virgin will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Joseph church.

Scattered Showers are Forecast for Appleton

Scattered light showers and not much change in temperature have been forecast for Appleton and vicinity during the next 24 hours, according to the weatherman. The gentle and moderate southwest winds will continue to prevail.

Sunday was quite warm but with cloudy skies in the afternoon was a fairly pleasant day. There were indications of rain on several occasions but none came. Sunday night was one of the warmest nights this week.

The low temperature last night was reported at 70 degrees with the mercury climbing to 86 at noon today.

districts. The chairman of these will meet here Aug. 25 to prepare the program for the conference. Some of the things that will be in that program, Mr. Hoover said, are:

Maps Out Program

"A canvass of the means, methods, agencies and powers available in the country for general advance, wider expansion of credit facilities to business and industry where consumption of goods is assured; coordination and expansion of livestock and agricultural credit facilities; coordination and expansion of financial facilities for the movement of commodities into consumption; expansion of programs for repairs and maintenance of the railways; and creation of organization for further spread of existing employment and expansion of employment."

Besides the businessmen, bankers, and industrialists, the president appointed to join the meeting heads of the federal reserve, farm loan, farm and home loan boards; of the reconstruction corporation and of the treasury, agriculture, commerce, and labor department.

He said that later he would designate special committees to handle questions such as those directly involving agriculture, labor, railways, and other industries and groups.

Two men who will sit in the conference were aboard the Sequoia with the president. They were Clarence Mott Woolley of New York, and Secretary Hyde of the agriculture department. So it was likely there would be some informal and further preliminary talks about the meeting.

The others listed in the boat party were Secretary Hurley, Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, Walter Hope of New York, Will Irwin, author; Walter H. Newton, a secretary, and Captain Joel T. Boone, White House physician.

Just where the beer would go was an argument ahead of time. A special service in honor of the Blessed Virgin will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Joseph church.

Catholics Observe Feast of Assumption

Catholics today observed one of the feast days of the Catholic church, the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin. Attending mass on this feast day is as important as attendance on Sunday, and unless obliged to, all Catholics are expected to refrain from labor, as on Sunday.

A special service in honor of the Blessed Virgin will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Joseph church.

Poor Relief Office to Close 2 Days Each Week

The doors of the public relief office will be closed Tuesday to all pleas of bread and butter, while the staff takes a day off for clerical work and investigating. Starting tomorrow, every Tuesday and Thursday will be devoted to office work, leaving the other four days of the week for handling applications from indigents.

crowds of week-enders from Vienna, who thought for a while revolution had broken out.

Princess Ileana won a warm spot in the hearts of Americans when she toured the country with her mother in 1926. She was in an automobile accident in Indiana while driving from Chicago to Culver with her brother, Prince Nicholas, and two Culver military academy cadets.

At West Point, where she and the queen were entertained by the cadets, one proud cadet, William J. Glasgow, earned the jocular title of "King of Rumania" from his fellows because he danced with Ileana, talked with her and looked at the Hudson in the moonlight with her.

Afterward, when the princess returned from her trip through the west, she sent a request to the commandant of the military academy asking if Cadet Glasgow could come down to lunch at Tuxedo, N. Y., where she and her brother were guests of Charles E. Mitchell. The commandant replied Cadet Glasgow could not.

The princess then asked if she could come to West Point and have lunch with Cadet Glasgow. The commandant replied there was nothing in the instructions to prevent that, and so it happened.

Both she and her husband have become expert airplane pilots and have made many flights together around Europe since their marriage a year ago last month.

Ileana's brother, King Carol of Rumania, and former King Alfonso of Spain, have offered to be godfathers at the baptism of the youngest Hapsburg. The date for that ceremony has not been fixed.

Prepare for Checker, Chess Season at Y

The old chessmen will have to have their faces dusted and the round checkers brightened before long at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., according to W. D. Farnum, membership secretary, who is in charge of the fall tournaments in those two popular games.

The checker boards have been up in the lobby all summer, with infrequent games. Plans are being made to launch a tournament in both checkers and chess this fall. The checker season opens in September. A chess tournament with a Fond du Lac team is being arranged for this coming fall.

Hoover Speech Helps Restore Party's Power

Win or Lose, It Will be Historic Come-Back Ex- ample, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Boston—Long after this presidential campaign is decided, the speech of acceptance which Hoover will deliver in the history of the nation as a most extraordinary example of the recuperative power in American politics.

Mr. Hoover may or may not win the election, but it will be conceded that before his acceptance speech his political fortunes were at a low point and that only miracles could overcome the tide of opposition that has been running so strongly against him for the last two years.

The impression made by the Thursday speech is amazing. Whether it converted enough people to win the election is too early to say but that it made more votes than any political speech in a generation would appear to be true, judging by the comments of people in all walks of life. It may be that for the most part Mr. Hoover recaptured votes that were Republican four years ago but, remembering his immense vote on that occasion and the anti-Hoover sentiment that has prevailed throughout the depression, he had a big job in trying to recover obvious losses.

Political Psychology
As a piece of political psychology, the Hoover speech is worth analyzing for the benefit of all those cynical observers who insist that a presidential candidate has to be either a showman or a demagogue and that the American people do not like quiet, dignified, forceful utterance with a simple exposition of current issues.

Mr. Hoover may have had misgivings himself about making a presidential address rather than a campaign speech, epigrammatic and pyrotechnic. But the comments of those who heard it and liked it will be found to be corroborative of the theory that the American people favor straightforward speaking, stripped of oratorical phrases and bombast. The president gained much by waiting six weeks after the ballyhoo atmosphere of the convention for receptiveness to a speech more carefully thought out and more in keeping with the dignity of a president than would have been possible in June.

The writer asked several people in various walks of life here and in New York state in the last two days why they liked the Hoover speech. Invariably the answer was, "the earnestness and sincerity of it." They said they formed a distinct impression of a hard working, determined individual who put in to his voice a fighting spirit they did not know he possessed.

Irrespective of whether in the rest of the campaign Mr. Hoover retains the high note he struck or whether he is victorious, his speech of acceptance will rank as a remarkable effort and as a tribute to what the human voice can imply by way of personality and intellectual vigor.

Prohibition Issue
It is interesting to compare notes with wets and drys. Some of those who favored repeal are saying that maybe the president's program of a substitute for the eighteenth amendment is more practical and that it will gain dry support so essential if the eighteenth amendment is to be changed or repealed.

How much of this is due to the fact that the president has made some of his hearers realize that repeal is more easily blocked by 13 dry states than would be revision, and how much it is really the instinct of regularity of party coming out of persons who are Republican anyway and are looking for a justification for continued support of their party, cannot be detected in the conflict of reasons that swing votes and prejudice the voter.

But it is apparent that among business people, economic issues are superseding prohibition and that the Hoover philosophy gave the conservatives the kind of assurance they have always liked and believe in more strongly than ever today.

As for the general run of folks, Mr. Hoover's worst probably gave little comfort to those out of a job or in distress—a vote that will accrue to the Democratic nominee. Numerically there are more people in jobs than out of jobs. The president's future rests with the employed, whom he is obviously trying to assure that his continued leadership will mean stability for the immediate future and economic recovery on a broader basis later on.

The president succeeded in subordinating to some extent the opposition to him in the eastern states on prohibition.

As a conservative appeal to regular Republicans in the states with big electoral votes, the Hoover speech surpassed anything McKinley or Theodore Roosevelt or Taft or Harding or Coolidge ever did in a campaign. Measured as a document in conservatism, delivered at a critical moment in a political contest, it was in its effects a powerful political stroke.

MR. HOOVER'S REPORT OF THE BATTLE

Apart from those matters of controversy that are inseparably linked with nearly all questions of national policy, and particularly when he wrote the story of the economic calamity the world has faced, President Hoover's acceptance address of last week contained passages of a high fervor, a thrilling and stirring spirit that heretofore have not marked his contribution to the literature of our presidents.

His story of the onset of the depression, the various little factors, that, combined, created a mighty torrent, the disasters abroad that emphasized and prolonged its hardships, was like a moving and dramatic story that held spellbound those who read it.

His development of this theme was careful and gradual, like the compelling strains, the growing surge of masterful music, with interest, emotions, dangers and the stubborn heroism of the people increasing in proportionate intensity.

Mr. Hoover here displayed a singular subtlety of appeal and finesse. He repelled any idea of partisanship. He paid tribute to Democrats as well as Republicans.

It would be quite impossible for any man to write such an address who did not feel deeply, whose emotions had not been stirred to extreme depths.

In giving an account of his captaincy through the terrible storm when three-fourths of the world was in collapse, revolution succeeding revolution, the long night whose darkness was only lighted by the occasional flashes from explosions, Mr. Hoover might have been a character from the Pilgrim's Progress, or he might have been a Grant plunging on to Appomattox.

When he decried the fearful forces, including our own elements who were given to countenancing disorder, for high and dramatic appeal and vivid and flashing persistence, one is reminded of President's Wilson war message to congress on that eventful April day of 1917.

We do not know what sort of military leader Mr. Hoover might have made. He is a man slow to move. But we reckon that if he had been given a place to hold, and orders to hold it, he would have been taken out in pieces before he let go.

His present analysis and portrayal of the depression is faithful and contains a degree of accuracy he was very slow in comprehending.

He says:

"Oftentimes the tendency of democracy in presence of national danger is to strike blindly, to listen to demagogues and slogans, all of which would destroy and would not save. We have refused to be stampeded into such courses."

Looking over the world we find a score of nations that followed men who did not know where they were going but played seductive tunes. The methods there employed have increased the miseries of the depression many fold.

"We have resolutely rejected the temptation, under pressure of immediate events, to resort to those panaceas and shortcuts which, even if temporarily successful, would ultimately undermine and weaken what has slowly been built and molded by experience and effort throughout these 150 years."

The quotation presents the treasure that must, at all costs, be saved and shows the need of stubborn men to withhold the people from being deluded by the clever phrases, charmed voices, but empty promises of those who actually never assisted in constructing that wonderful organization of society, "that has slowly been built and molded by experience and effort through these 150 years." Shall we so conduct ourselves that we must start the toilsome work of rebuilding?

Two other expressions of the president should not be missed. One had to do with his own feelings when everything was crashing all around him. He said:

"Today millions of our fellow countrymen are out of work. Prices of the farmers' products are below a living standard. Many millions more who are in business or hold employment are haunted by fears for the future."

"No man with a spark of humanity can sit in my place without suffering the picture of their anxieties and hardships before him day and night."

Carefully did the president handle the subject at this point. He, of course, realizes that conditions will have a material effect upon his own political fortunes and perhaps defeat him. He makes no complaint about that. He says:

"They (the people) would be more than human if they were not led to blame their conditions upon the government in power. I have understood their sufferings and have worked to the limits of my strength to produce action that would really help them."

Therein perhaps lies the key that will determine the November election. Can Mr. Hoover and his friends convince the majority of the people that the utmost has been done in a careful, patient, friendly and just fashion for the nation as a whole?

THE SHADOW OF THE FARM BOARD

The federal Farm Board controls, either by direct or indirect purchase, about 3 million bales of cotton worth on the present market nearly 100 million dollars.

As was foreseen by those who fought the advent of the Farm Board this cotton now hangs like the sword of Damocles over the heads of the cotton growers, preventing the market from gaining the full advance in price that would be a natural thing in view of the apparent curtailment of this year's cotton crop and the growing demand of the mills for the product.

The cotton growers in order to put an end to the depressing influence of this surplus cotton over the market are forming a syndicate with powerful banking support in order to purchase from the Farm Board these 3 million bales and stabilize the market, a thing that cannot be accomplished unless there is a definite policy concerning this huge surplus. Definite policies cannot be adopted by the government nor, it seems, by governmental agencies. Officials and administrations change too fast in America. The personnel of the Farm Board changes swiftly too. And the influence over its policies that may be exerted by political groups and for political reasons is another powerful factor, so uncertain, whimsical and temperamental by nature, as to prevent the determination of a policy which would permit natural factors only to affect market prices. So long therefore as the Farm Board controls this surplus which, theoretically, it purchased to help the cotton growers, they in fact face an uncertainty that amounts to chaos.

The cotton growers of the South are prone on the ground because cotton is selling at a price below that at which they can produce it.

They want to get up. We all want them to get up. If they arise it will be a mighty factor, just as important as any other branch of agriculture, in getting the country back to normalcy.

A South that could really vision some profit from growing its cotton would be a tremendous buying influence in this country, and the manufacturing North has many things to sell.

And yet the cotton growers know there is no chance of stability unless they get the Farm Board off their necks.

If they can rid themselves of this threat by the purchase of this cotton and carefully dole it out to the market over a period of years they will have accomplished the best that is possible under the circumstances.

The wheat markets in this country have been kept in an unsettled state for more than a year because the Farm Board makes a policy of selling its wheat holdings on every bulge of the market which puts a quick end to the bulge. But the Farm Board says that it is its business to use its best judgment in getting rid of its holdings and getting out again as much as possible of the millions of public moneys invested.

Thus do we find that having once undertaken a dangerous course in order to "save" ourselves, we find, before the end of the journey, that we must get rid of the machinery we so constructed, in order to "save" ourselves, not from the original conditions but the new peril created by the instrumentality which was built to "save" us.

Opinions Of Others

OVERLAPPING TAX RATES
One phase of taxation in the United States is beginning to get more notice, as plans are considered for a wider distribution of levies in governmental subdivisions. The enactment of a new federal code makes more difficult a nondiscriminatory distribution of rates on a broader base. States and their subdivisions have largely relied on real estate and personal property as their predominant, if not exclusive, revenue foundation. Supplemental sources of receipts, such as income assessments, excises and miscellaneous imports, were utilized for the most part by the federal government. The program to relieve land and buildings of a part of their load invariably included some form of excise or miscellaneous schedules and often income taxes States purposed for the most part to include areas of commerce that either were not taxed at all, or only lightly, by congress.

Now, as a consequence of federal budget balancing, the situation is changed. A wide range of items, ordinarily regarded as preferable for special levies, has been added to the national list. Stamp taxes on various documents are specified. Income demands have been raised and also state rates. The directions in which states and communities can move in seeking new sources or revenue, not tapped or tapped only slightly by the federal treasury, are noticeably lacking. Moreover, the national government has overstepped by placing a tax on gasoline sales, although all the states have taxes of that kind that are heavy. Quite few of the states overlook the federal field in income and estate schedules. This duplication and the complications it causes was discussed yesterday at a convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Cincinnati. Plainly, the tendency toward a lack of balance in tax systems calls for study.

The circumstances outlined do not preclude, of course, the drafting of improved state revenue methods, certainly not intangible wealth that is found in relatively small volumes of assessment books. The prerequisite to success in sound tax relief enterprise, however, is retrenchment in outlays.—Indianapolis News.

WE NOTE where some of the dries are going to back Prexy Hoover anyway... even despite his liberal views on prohibition... the wet and moist Republicans, of course, feel much better... sfunny about people... the same people who were cussing Hoover not long ago are already beginning to take a different viewpoint... partly, we suppose, because of improved sentiment about the country during the past few weeks and partly because they're addressing the other night... well, it probably doesn't make such a difference who's elected next fall, just as long as America has the opportunity to make use of some of the lessons she's learned during the depression...

NOW IT'S CULBERTSON

When I was but a little lad
I heard my dad insist
A system absolute he had
To play the game of whist.
But mother frequently confessed
She liked her own devices best.

Though little of the game I knew,
So young was I back then,
I gathered things which women do
Did not appeal to men.
And oft I heard my father say:
"My dear, you threw two tricks away!"

But times have changed. Now Culbertson
The women's love commands,
And I have grown to be the one
Who over-bids his hands.
For Nellie mutters in my ear:
"You didn't have a two-bid, dear!"

No grudge 'gainst Culbertson have I
I do not know the man,
But nothing have I done but sigh
Since first his vogue began.
And I'm fed up, while playing hands,
On Culbertson and his demands.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

A FRIEND WILL TELL YOU.

Everybody's breath has an odor of its own, not always a pronounced odor, but an odor. The trouble is you have the wrong kind of friends. But does your snobbish, insincere attitude about these things inspire real friendship? Well, never mind. Just listen to Ole Doc Brady, who wants to be friendly to everybody within proper limitations. Maybe what I will teach you, if you listen, will help you to achieve closer friendship with your associates.

Every human being has not only a characteristic breath odor but a characteristic body odor, too. If the life imposes upon the olfactory perception so dull that sense that it becomes numb to all but the more emphatic odors, that doesn't alter the fact that everybody's breath has an odor.

A favorite line of the charlatans is that foul breath indicates "poor elimination." That obviously makes a good cue for the quack to bring on all his familiar bag of tricks, such as fasting, dietary fads, his own health foods, colon irrigations and maybe a course of exotic sweat baths or pretty light treatments or something "if the quack has the equipment for such monkey business."

As a matter of fact faulty elimination has nothing to do with the odor of the breath. Reverse peristalsis may account for the bad breath in some cases, but that is quite independent of the function of excretion or elimination.

Reverse of the direction of the wave of movement in the stomach, causing return of the normal gastric juice into the esophagus or gullet, explains the symptoms commonly called "heartburn." If some of the acid fluid rises into the throat it produces "waterbreath." Many people, who neither ill nor sick (in the American and English sense of the words), yet have a fur or coating on the tongue every morning, perhaps a "brown taste" and a heavy or unpleasant breath, are suffering from reverse peristalsis. Merely. All this, be it emphasized, has nothing to do with "elimination" or excretion.

Common causes of reversed peristalsis are excesses in eating and drinking, abuse of condiments, the interference habit—interference with the natural digestive process by means of physics, enemas and the like—excesses such as fear and rage or their minor manifestations and various organic disease of the stomach or intestine.

A number of wholesome, healthful articles of diet impart an odor to the breath and various medicines which are commonly ingredients in popular nostrums may give the breath a peculiar odor.

These are some of the causes of breath odor not ordinarily considered. In an early issue we shall consider the more familiar causes of unpleasant breath and suggest what to do about it.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE large balloons were prickly and that, really, it was very sad. "There is no chance to fix them," whispered Duncy, with a frown.

"If we just had some glue I know that I could fix them so they'd blow right up again, but now, I guess, they're doomed to all stay down."

Then Scouty said, "I'll try my luck. If we can find where they were stuck, we might plug up the pesky holes with little bits of wood."

"Hand me my mule. It seems the worst. That's why I'll try to plug it first." But when he tried, the plugging didn't turn out very good.

"Oh, my, it leaks to beat the band," said Copsy. "It won't even stand. There's no sense trying any more. We're through with them, I guess."

And then poor Duncy loudly cried, "Why did we take this crazy ride? It seems that we are always getting into some bad mess."

"Oh, well, there's no use crying now," said Scouty. "I am sure, somehow, that we can get out of this forest, if we look around."

"I'll lead the way. Just follow me, and we will see what we can see." They looked and looked and then, tired out, all flopped down on the ground.

It wasn't very long until all of the Tynmites were still. And then there came some little snores. The lads were all tired out.

Of course, not one of them could see a monkey, high up in a tree, that gazed down on them, wondering what it was all about.

The monkey soon dropped to the ground and "wonged" the Tynmites, waddled round. And then it grabbed wee Duncy just as tight as tight could be.

Before the lad could say a thing, the monkey gave himself a fling and, with poor Duncy in its arms, climbed right back up the tree. Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Cancer.
A member of my family is suffering from cancer. I am seeing a nurse. Is there any danger of my taking the disease? (D. C. H.)

Answer.—No, cancer is not communicable. Ordinary soap and water cleanliness is adequate protection against ordinary infection such as anybody may contract from contact with any foul discharge.

Baby Dislikes Milk.
I fear I took the baby's bottle away too late. She refuses to take milk from a glass. If I put her in bed without her bottle she treats us to a delightful 20 minutes of grand opera. What shall I do? (J. O. C.)

Answer.—Offer her food at the proper time. If she refuses it wait until the next time. You do not state the baby's age. Perhaps she needs additional food now. Send stamped addressed envelope for instructions for feeding a baby over a year old.

Dumb Dora Tries to Reduce.
In order to thin the blood and aid reducing I have been taking epsom salts and lemon juice in hot water every morning. Have been told it helps one to withstand the summer heat. So far I have not reduced any. Is there any harm in this? (Mrs. K. J. H.)

Answer.—Yes, it reduces health if not weight. The lemon juice is all right if you like it, a good food if not very nourishing. The salts are all wrong and will neither thin the blood nor enable you to withstand heat. In fact your reduction scheme is pretty silly business. If you think you should reduce write in, enclose stamped envelope bearing your address, give your age, height and weight and if I think you should reduce I'll send you instructions. Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—About 30 per cent of its membership has been "discontinued temporarily," but the Seven O'Clockers Klub is still running. Running, that is, along the railroad tracks between Jersey City and Philadelphia, and across the ferry to New York.

This has been called "the only club on wheels." Its headquarters are two railroad coaches, especially fitted up to meet the needs of the commuting members—Pennsylvania men who have their business in this city.

Every morning at 7 o'clock, the two coaches leave Philadelphia. Every evening at 5:12, they are pulled out of Jersey City, home ward bound.

One of the coaches is reserved for the gentlemen who wish to while away the distance in a quiet manner, reading, working or meditating.

The boys in the rear car can go to it at their games and chatter, without restraint. The two-car arrangement has been so satisfactory that not even a temporary shrunken membership has influenced them to drop one.

All manner of comforts and conveniences are supplied—a library, a radio, desks—and other things.

Richard A. Wotowich, the president, who gets on and off at Jenkintown, Pa., had the inspiration for the name of the club.

He told me that the members had got a present for a retiring conductor, a faithful railroad servant whom they all knew and liked. They were just riding back and forth without a name then, and somebody suggested that there ought to be a designation for the group that was to make the presentation.

Well, thought Mr. Wotowich, we do most of our traveling at and around 7 o'clock, so what more appropriate than the Seven O'Clockers Klub?

As for the K's, that's just one of those fancy touches that we needn't bother our heads about.

P. S.—There were 130 members before 30 per cent of them dropped out.

In case you've been wondering how they get those yachts in and out of the boat display stores; the huge plate-glass windows open inward, on the strongest of hinges.

Chinese back-scratchers—those little ivory hands on the ends of long, slender sticks—are down to 15 cents a piece at the Chinatown emporiums, in case your back is itching. One shop offers four for 50 cents, and announces that its scratchers are all hand-carved.

City Softball Title Series Starts Tuesday at Brandt Park

Fox River to Meet Atlas in Three Games

Tuttle Press, Prints in Inter-Loop Game at Roosevelt Tonight

THE annual city softball championship series will begin at 8:30 Tuesday evening at Brandt park when the Fox River and the Atlas Mill teams representing the American League and the Atlas Mill representing the National League will meet in the first of what may, or may not be three games.

The Fox River won its right to city title play by winning two games from the Tuttle Press company in an American league play-off. The first victory was by a score of 6 and 0, the second by a 2 and 1 count. In the latter game, Sells, Fox River hurler gave but two hits and forced 16 enemy batters to fly out.

Play in the American league was unusually close all season with three and sometimes four teams being tied for first honors. Upsets were common and made the race probably the best in the history of the league. The Powers company faltered about two weeks ago and failed to recover and get back into running.

Coated Paper was the next to drop out of the running when it lost what appeared an easy game to the Telephone in the last scheduled contest. That left the battle up to Tuttle Press and Fox River.

In the National league the Atlas Mill team with Ray Crane doing the pitching walked away with the pennant. The Mill aggregation won 12 straight games and gave none of the other clubs a chance.

Tonight another of the inter league games is scheduled at Roosevelt diamond. It will show the second place teams in league play, the Tuttle Press of the National league and the Telephone of the American. The games will begin at 8:30.

The second title game is scheduled for Thursday night and the third and last—if necessary—for Saturday.

About 20 players were entered.

At Butte des Morts a sweepstakes and blind boy featured play. Ralph McGowan won low gross prize with a 78. Low net scores were L. O. Schubert 64-72, A. M. Haskins 86-72, W. W. Oake 88-71, J. F. Gillingham, 91-89, 72, Robert Zaumeyer 90-71, E. A. Killoren 92-68, George Woelz 95-68, Herb Kahn 97-69, H. C. Krueger 102-80, 72, George Maye 83-72.

Carnera Blocks Poreda Comeback

Heavies Top Dull Week of Boxing; Leonard Tries Again Friday

New York—One Italian, Salvatore Ruggiello, halted Stanley Poreda's climb toward the top of the heavyweight lists early this year. Now another and bigger one, Primo Carnera, menaces the Jersey City slugger's comeback campaign.

Poreda was hailed as one of the best of the younger heavyweights, a powerful hitter with either hand, until he blocked one of Ruggiello's pie-dripping rights with his chin and was knocked cold in the fifth round at Madison Square Garden last January.

Undiscouraged, Poreda began the long climb upward again and a few weeks ago hung up a sensational victory over Ernie Schaaf of Boston, generally regarded as the third best heavyweight in the world. Tomorrow night at Newark, the Jersey boy will attempt to hurdle another formidable obstacle in the huge person of Carnera. Poreda will concede at least 60 pounds to the mammoth Venetian and that may prove too heavy a handicap.

This bout tops a dull boxing program this week. The only other offering of much account is Benny Leonard's six round tangle with Mike Sardo at the Long Beach stadium here Friday.

Wilford Wehrle Wins Milwaukee Golf Title

Milwaukee—Wilford Wehrle a youthful golfer from Racine, won the Milwaukee district golf championship yesterday when he defeated Bowden Davis, 17-year-old state junior champion, in a match which went the full 36 holes before a decision was reached. The margin of victory was 2 up.

Grishaber-DeYoungs Meet Verstegen Family

The Grishaber-DeYoung softball team will be after its fourth straight win Monday night when it meets the Verstegen family at Little Chute park. Paul Grishaber and Clem DeYoung will form one battery while Bobbie Verstegen and Jerry Verstegen will form the other. A real battle is expected from the Verstegen family as it is a family of athletes who have been playing a lot of ball.

The family league recently organized in Appleton has decided to postpone Tuesday's opening games because of the city series game. The opener will be Wednesday. All games will be seven innings.

Cubs Lose Two But Retain Lead In Senior Loop

Yankees Stretch Margin to Nine Games After Beating Nats

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer
WHATSOEVER the scientific improbability of two or more objects occupying the same space at the same time, the eight clubs of the National league are busily trying to demonstrate that it can be done.

With the end of the season only six weeks away, the clubs are so closely bunched that an attempt to pick the winner can be classed as pure suicide. Chicago's Cubs still lead the parade but their margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates is only half a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers another game and a half to the lead. The Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals follow at such brief intervals that the Cardinals are only six games out of first place.

Chicago Cubs Lose Two
The Cubs lost valuable ground yesterday as they surrendered two games to the Cardinals, 2-0 and 2-1 in 10 innings. Tex Carleton spaced seven Cub hits in the opener and Dizzy Dean gave up only six in the nightcap and struck out eight men, six in a row.

Blockly driving ahead toward the mark marked time for the day by splitting two games with the New York Giants, winning the first, 2-1, in 10 innings and dropping the second, 8-4. Johnny Frederick set up a new major league record when he clouted a home run in a pinch-hitter's role for the fourth time this season. Frederick's homer, coming with two out in the ninth frame of the first game, tied the score and the Dodgers then won the battle in the next frame. The Giants mauled three Dodger pitchers for 13 hits to win the second game.

The Cincinnati Reds, in last place but only 13 games out of the lead, moved over the Boston Braves twice, 2-1 and 9-3, getting excellent pitching from Red Lucas and Si Johnson.

Yankees Whip Nats
The New York Yankees stretched their American league lead to nine games by whipping Washington, 5-4. Lefty Gomez won his twentieth victory although he although he was knocked out of the box in the ninth when a Senator rally left one run short of tying the score.

The Philadelphia Athletics clouted out a 6-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the first game as Jimmie Fox hit his forty-third homer but Johnny Welch pitched the Sox to a 2-0 shutout in the nightcap, allowing eight scattered hits.

Tom Bridges stopped the Cleveland Indians with five hits and three runs as Detroit won a 4-0 triumph that dropped the Indians another half game behind the Athletics.

The St. Louis Browns won two games from the Chicago White Sox, 5-0 and 9-5. Bump Hadley allowed only five hits in the opener and Sam Gray pitched as well as he had to in the second game after his teammates had given him an 8-0 lead.

Miss Jacobs Draws Bye for Net Meet

Picked as Likely Successor To Helen Wills at Forest Hills

Forest Hills, N. Y.—The women's national tennis championships, opening today at the West Side Tennis Club, found Helen Jacobs in the role of heir-apparent to the throne vacated by Helen Wills Moody.

Miss Jacobs, seeded No. 1, looked like the class of the field of 53, especially as the opposition was an almost exact counterpart of that through which she waded so impressively at Seabright and Easthampton.

Seeded behind Miss Jacobs in the American list were Mrs. L. A. Harper, Mrs. Marjorie Morrill Painter, Josephine Cruikshank, Sarah Palfrey, Caroline Babcock, Virginia Hiley and Mrs. John Van Ryn. Thru Mrs. J. B. Pittman and Joan Ridley of England and Marjorie Leeming of Vancouver.

Miss Jacobs, Mrs. Pittman, Miss Cruikshank, Miss Hiley and Mrs. Van Ryn all were in the upper half of the draw. Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Painter, Miss Palfrey, Miss Babcock, Miss Ridley and Miss Leeming in the lower.

Miss Jacobs, Mrs. Van Ryn, Sarah Palfrey and Miss Ridley drew first round byes.

of the way, the difference was seldom more than a hole or two and the decision was doubtful to the last green.

Yachts, Cruisers Recall Olden Days On the River

MAHLE's big boat, Heavy Moon, a huge outstanding craft that, when under way, cut through the water with perfect grace.

Gordon Derber and Judge Fred V. Heinemann had their boats out as did Dr. A. L. Koch, John Balliet and Bernard Klatt, Milwaukee, with the "Emden," a boat brought up from Milwaukee and which will lay over here a day or two as her owner visits in the valley and takes in the De Pere races later in the month.

Others who had crafts on the river were Ossie Cook, Joe Rupt, Oshkosh, Miller, Clark and Lund of Oshkosh, Ken Dickinson, Harvey Schlicht, Art Jones, Max Koletetz, Charles Manville and Johnnie Luft with his hydroplane.

Most of the spectators on the bank stood and sat at points of vantage. The youngsters found any old place from which they could swing and see and one old tree on monkey island, at Washington park 200, Milwaukee, its branches being literally covered with young spectators.

A Thrill for the Ladies
The lady spectators got the thrill of their lives watching two hats worn by women members of the Wisconsin Boating association. The "bonnets" were unusual in color and design and when the women passed heads of almost every girl and woman turned and watched. If one of those hats is shown on Appleton's board walk soon, don't be surprised.

During the races and after, the spectacles were entertained by the antics of Charles Dorsey, Marinette, in his boat Delirious, and delirious it was. Put-put-putting around the course and going through almost as many antics as a clown, the Delirious looked as if she were going to catch herself a boat load of water on every maneuver. But at a late hour she still was going through crazy gyrations and still was dry.

Other entertainment features of the afternoon were a bit of diving by Waldemar Klein, Appleton, when he worked with staid still long enough for him to control it. Bob Neller acted the clown and dressed in more or less clothes plunked himself into the river while the crowd rocked with laughter.

Ski Rider Enters
A surf board riding stunt was turned in by a Milwaukee swimmer and then Clint Schmidt, Appleton, thrilled with a water ski riding demonstration as he flashed the length of the course behind a fast traveling motor boat.

The last event of the day's program was a parachute jump by Tony Salo, Appleton youth who "bailed out" of a plane driven by Elwyn West of Whiting airport about 6:30. The jump was Salo's second in his life and he experienced more than one thrill diving power wires until he made a "bail out" landing in a marsh. The jump was made across the river from Stroeb's island. The day ended and the next one started with a dance at Terrace Gardens.

But there was one tragedy during the afternoon. A young man who is known to you and many others as "Sparky" but whose name we won't tell, suffered a great loss when the upper plate of "store" teeth got away from him and bounded tantalizingly off the engine cover of a motor boat and plunked themselves into the lake as the late owner wailed "There goes 65 bucks."

And if anyone happens to catch a fish out there off Stroeb's island, and the fish has an extra set of teeth, they belong to "Sparky." All of which may be advertising to you but a plea from the heart by "Sparky."

Cubs and New Boss Return to Chicago

Bruins Play in Own Park As They Start Drive To Clinch Pennant

Chicago—The Chicago Cubs, changed in more ways than one, came home today for a do or die effort to establish a safe lead in the National league pennant race during the next three weeks.

They came home to play their first game at Wrigley field under the leadership of Charlie Grimm, successor to Rogers Hornsby, for a fans' welcome to the new manager.

The biggest change in the club is its position in the race. They left home well out of the lead, but for the first time since 1929, when Joe McCarthy led them to the championship, came back with a profit in games won on an eastern trip.

The sport moved them into the lead, although it was only one-half game over Pittsburgh, and only two games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, counted by the Cubs as the team to beat.

Notorious as a team that could win at home, only to blow off leads on the road, the Cubs finished the trip with eleven victories and eight defeats. The Hornsby regime ended on Aug. 4 and under his direction, the record was four victories and four defeats. The Grimm brand of Cubs racked up seven triumphs against four defeats.

Other alterations involved the absence of outfielder Vince Barton, and the presence of Mark Koenig, a member of world championship New York Yankee teams, who was acquired from the Pacific coast league, and Frank Demaree, an outfielder brought in from the same organization.

Luke Sewell, Cleveland catcher, is spending his eleventh season with the Indians.

Mikkelsen Cops First Honors in Yacht Club Races

Thousands See Second Annual Meet on Lake Butte des Morts

CHAMPION for three years in the Wisconsin class F division, and national champion in class E competition, Fred Mikkelsen, Milwaukee, driving his shell at 49 miles per hour roared to first honors in the class E and F race at the second annual regatta of Appleton Yacht club on Little Lake Butte des Morts Sunday afternoon.

Thousands of people watched the races from Stroeb's Island on the north side of the lake, and hundreds lined the southern banks. More than 2,000 cars were parked on the island, while hundreds of others were unable to get through.

Although there were no new records set yesterday, spectators saw some of the middle-west's best drivers exhibit their wares in keen competition. Making the turns at full speed, the drivers thrilled the huge audience with their masterful control of the light shells, and heavy motors.

Richardson Spills
Old Man Jinx stalking at the spar buoy on the east turn of the one-mile course, caught William Richardson, Sheboygan Falls demon driver, unawares in the class C and D race.

Attempting to make the big turn at full speed, Richardson made a huge arc and ran amuck. The light shell turned over, hurtling the driver through the air and into the water. His boat landed in shallow water near the shore. Richardson was none the worse for the experience.

Getting off to an excellent start, Dan Schuyler outpointed three other racers to cop first prize in the class A and B race. He hummed around the one-mile course five times in 10.8 minutes with his shell traveling 32.5 miles per hour. He lapped Norman Bent, Green Bay, fourth position driver on the home stretch.

R. W. Guttman, flashy Manitowoc driver, drove his W-586 to second class and Ted Thomas of New London copped third. Thomas and Bent got off to a poor start and were considerably handicapped. William Voss, Manawa driver was unable to get started.

Travel 43.94 Miles Per Hour
Roaring ahead of the field on the first lap, Frank Harvey, Milwaukee won first place in the class C and D division. He rounded the one-mile course five times in 8.54 minutes, traveling at 43.94 miles per hour.

Richardson's spill on the first lap sent H. Bloomfield, Highland Park, Ill., driver into second place, in which position he finished Robert McCulloch, Oconomowoc, who was unable to get his boat started until the first and second position races had completed one lap, finished in third place. He swamped his motor jockeying for position.

Kirby Raab, Milwaukee, came in second in the class E and F race. Frank Harvey took third place. Guttman got off to a bad start and was obliged to finish in fourth place.

Richardson, driving a two cylinder, class C motor, battled for fourth position, but was unable to overtake Guttman on the last half of the final lap. Richardson took the last turn wide open, but cut the shell short to avoid repetition of what happened in the class C event.

Driving a two cylinder, Class C motor, Frank Harvey won the free-for-all event traveling at a speed of 49.9 miles per hour. He made the five mile stretch in 8 minutes and 35 seconds. Kirby Raab, who was forced to take third position at the start, stepped out on the second lap and finished in second position. He passed R. Guttman, who at the start of the race was in first place.

Six in Free-For-All
Six shells started in the free-for-all, but Bloomfield and Mikkelsen were forced to quit when they developed motor trouble.

Officials of the Wisconsin Boating association, most of them from Milwaukee were in charge of the races. Those present were George Boyer, Milwaukee, commodore; Mrs. H. H. Raab, Milwaukee, secretary and treasurer; Dr. H. G. Decker, Milwaukee; Fred Mikkelsen, Sheboygan; Carl Koestler, Milwaukee; J. S. Richardson, Sheboygan Falls; Charles Steele, Chicago; and Mrs. George Boyer, Milwaukee, recording secretary. Paul R. Stevens was general chairman of the event.

A sound amplification system carried announcements, and reports on the progress of the races to the big audience. Results of the races were transmitted through the system.

Due to other races conducted in various parts of the state, drivers who were expected to race here participated in other places.

Four Teams Remain in Printer's Ball Meet

St. Paul—Four teams—Washington, Cincinnati, the twin cities and New York—remained today for the Union Printers' International baseball championship at the tournament here.

Cincinnati was a leading contender by virtue of four straight wins in as many games. The Ohioans won yesterday from the twin cities, 5 to 0. Washington, the 1931 winner, defeated Chicago, 10 to 6, and New York took the other game played, 22 to 8, from Baltimore.

Edward L. Gordon this year became the first University of Iowa athlete to make two American Olympic teams. He competed in the broad jump in 1928 and 1932.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
OS ANGELES—The athletic forces of the United States emerged today from 16 days of unprecedented Olympic competition with the greatest collection of victories gained in this quadrennial carnival in at least 20 years.

In a swiftly-moving drama unequalled in sports history for its color and spectacular elements, for its record-breaking pace, its spills and thrills, America's boys and girls romped out in front of the rest of the world.

They won no less than eight of the 17 separate and distinct competitions where, unofficially, team championships were involved. Italy, with three titles to her credit, was the nearest rival the U. S. A. had in the all-around race for medals and points, although there were thrills of triumph for most of the other big nations participating.

The Americans, at the outset, ran away with the track and field for both men and women and came down the stretch to add the chief prizes of rowing and boxing. They yielded the supremacy in men's swimming for the first time, to Japan's spectacular young team, but American mermaids continued their unbroken succession of team triumphs.

Win 11 of 23 Men's Events

All sections of the United States contributed to the jousting on a wide assortment of Olympic fronts, where the fray was continuous and dazzling. Track and field stars of the American midlands, including the great Jim Thorpe of Kansas, world record holder in the decathlon, Eddie Tolan of Detroit, the double sprint king, and Bill Carr, if his allegiance may be switched for the moment from Pennsylvania to Arkansas, contributed much to the sweeping victories of an American team that captured, altogether, 11 out of 23 men's events.

Texas sent the redoubtable Babe Didrikson, double winner and world record breaker in women's track and field sports, while the Pacific northwest contributed Helene Madison, only double winner of the swimming battle. Eastern stalwarts like Leo Sexton and John Anderson asserted their supremacy in the weight tossing duels, besides the contribution of Philadelphia's oarsmen to the nation's rowing triumph. The south's Eddie Flynn of New Orleans gave a skillful boxing exhibition that helped add another team victory to the big list.

Win Boat Race

As a climax California's unbeaten eight-oared crew came along to beat off Italy's remarkable challenge and make safe another long-cherished item of American supremacy. It was only by the fleet margin of one-fifth of a second the Americans won the big boat race, with Canada and Great Britain at close third and fourth, but it was enough to keep intact their own and their country's undefeated record in this competition.

The finish of the crew race, over the 2,000-meter course at Long Beach, Saturday afternoon, gave 60,000 spectators one of the biggest thrills of the whole games. All the way it was so close that the outcome always was in doubt. Italy's final spurt, showing their shell slightly ahead, seemed the winning thrust until the Californians answered with a mighty effort to get their boat over the line scarcely more than a foot in front.

For Americans it was one of the finest and Glympic pictures almost completely re-written in swimming and track sports. Due to a variety of causes, chiefly the competitive pace and the favorable conditions, Olympic records fell in 25 of the 29 track and field events for men and women and in 10 of the 11 swimming races. Eleven world records all told, were toppled in track and field events and two more in the Olympic pool.

Records, too, were shattered for attendance in every Olympic sport, with track and field alone drawing nearly half of the aggregate paid attendance of 1,000,000 for all events. The Olympic stadium was packed to its capacity of 105,000 for the opening ceremonies and nearly 100,000 were on hand yesterday to see the games officially closed and the flaming torch extinguished.

Calls Shot, Drops Ball
In Another Golfer's Cap

Scribner, Neb. — (P) — Walter Sievers today boasted a new sort of hole in one record. He was rounding the local golf course and spotted a ball belonging to W. G. Henatsch who was playing at some distance. Calling to Henatsch to hold out his cap, Sievers snatched the ball with a mashie. It arched 80 yards and — and you guessed it — plopped into Henatsch's cap.

Police are Winners In Unscheduled Race

Los Angeles—A track team of five men and two women—unlisted as an entry by Olympic games officials—ran for a short time on the track at Olympic stadium during the closing ceremony of the 1932 games yesterday.

They were pursued by police, taken to jail and held on charges of suspicion of criminal syndicalism.

Allegedly members of a communistic organization, the seven leaped from stadium seats to the track, diverted themselves of civilian clothes and appeared in track suits on which were emblazoned the words "Free Tom Mooney." Mooney is serving a life sentence for his conviction of participation in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing of 1916.

Poison Ivy Easy To Recognize by Its Three Leaves

Point Out Many Cases of Infection Could be Avoided by Knowledge

Madison — That three-leaved plant in the woods that turns reddish in August with the fall sunnash is one of the most poisonous of all plants in the woodland.

Poison ivy has three leaves. Woodbine, which is non-poisonous has five leaves.

Hundreds of cases of ivy poisoning which occur each year, could be avoided if people would know the leaves on the creeping plants and leave the three-leaved plants alone.

Woodbine and poison ivy are very easily distinguished for woodbine has five leaves while ivy has but three—the same number, as there are letters in the word "ivy" leaves. The leaves of the State Medical Society issued today "Two of the leaves are short stalked while the third or terminal leaflet is long stalked."

Poison ivy leaves are shiny and wax-like, except in the early spring while woodbine leaves are dull. The berries of the woodbine quickly turn to a deep blue; the ivy bears smooth, greenish berries which change later to a yellowish white, or ivory color.

"The berries remain on the plant until late in the winter and are about a fourth of an inch in diameter."

"Poison ivy, as well as woodbine, tends to trail along the ground, or climb over brush or fences. Both often grow on trees. But don't forget that ivy, under favorable conditions, can grow as a shrub three to four feet high or even assume the proportions of a young tree."

"Poisoning usually occurs as a result of actual contact with some part of the plant. It is possible, however, that a person may be poisoned by the leaf hairs or pollen of the plant if only a short distance from it."

"The susceptibility of different persons varies but it has been established that there is apparently no such thing as absolute unsusceptibility."

"If you have come in contact with poison ivy one of the surest and best ways to prevent the eruption is the use of soap and hot water for the poison requires some time to penetrate the skin. A stiff brush should not be used as this might tend to drive the poison into the skin. Use a heavy soap and continue the washing for about 4 or 5 minutes with several handfuls of cloth or gauze—discard each in turn. Change the water frequently or be running water and don't let the latter or water which unwashed areas of skin. Repeat the process in 4 or 5 hours. Alcohol, diluted about one-half with water, is also of value in washing exposed skin as it exerts a solvent action on the poison. The irritation from the eruption may be allayed by immersing the inflamed surface in hot water for several minutes, gradually increasing the temperature until the water is as hot as can be borne. If the eruption is on the face apply the hot water by means of towels. Cooking soda or borax on bandages (a teaspoon to a cup of water) is a value, but the bandages should not be tight and should be frequently changed. Ointments should not be used in the early stages. A bad case of ivy poisoning always requires the attention of a physician. In any case if there is a fever, severe pain or headache, it is much safer to call a physician at once."

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Troubles crowd up on Sondra Kent Merriman. She is secretly married to Mark Merriman, who is in the Congo trying to become wealthy. Her friend, John Anderson, seems to have come distant. And now her sister Flora, with whom she lives, tells her she is going to leave her husband, Ben.

Chapter 17

FLORA was proposing to be have in an abominably selfish way. And yet—was she herself any less selfish, Sondra wondered.

Sondra knew she was not. She cared nothing for Flora's happiness as long as her own life was secure; she had not even cared for Mark's happiness. She had not been willing to share his life with him, she had shrunk from the hardships and discomforts.

If she could only see him again, just for a moment, only be reassured by his love.

She hardly closed her eyes all night, and when the maid came in the next morning her first question was—

"Have you seen Mrs. Lomax this morning?"

"Yes, miss—"

"Is she... quite well?" Sondra asked.

"Oh yes, miss—I am taking her breakfast up at nine."

Sondra gave a sigh of relief. Last night was a bad dream which the daylight had dispelled.

When the maid had gone she took up the telephone receiver from beside the bed and called John.

Silly to feel so diffident where he was concerned; they had parted the best of friends.

Anderson's man answered the phone—Mr. Anderson was not yet up, he told Sondra.

He evidently recognized her voice for he asked if she could give a message.

"No—nothing thanks; just ask Mr. Anderson to ring me later."

She tried to feel reassured, but there was a dark little spot of doubt in her mind; supposing John did not phone.

She dressed and went to Flora's room.

Flora was breakfasting in bed; she looked very much as usual and made no reference to their conversation of the night before.

Sondra felt comforted. People said all sorts of silly things late at night, when they were tired and overwrought.

At half past ten when Anderson had not phoned, Sondra went out. She told the maid casually that if Anderson called, to say she would be in during the afternoon.

She went to the park and met Beatrice Taylor.

Beatrice looked fluffy and frilly as usual. "You look worn out," she said bluntly.

Sondra flushed. "My head aches," she said untruthfully. "I thought the air would do it good."

They walked along together, and Beatrice said with a giggle.

"I met Mr. Anderson a moment ago. He's so good looking—I haven't seen him since that day."

"I see," Sondra was conscious of a sudden tightening in her throat. He was lunching with Natalie Symors of course.

"Some other day then," she said with an effort.

"I shall be delighted," it was all so terribly formal; one would have thought they were the merest acquaintances.

A month ago Anderson would never have dreamed of making any engagements for the first day of his return, except with her.

A month ago she could have managed this man without the least effort, but today she found herself exerting every nerve to win back to the old footing that had existed between them.

NEW PLANE MUFFLER

New York—A new type of plane muffler developed by an eastern transport line is said to reduce noise by about 70 per cent. and cut down air pressure by one-third. On multi-engined planes, one muffler is employed by each engine, and the exhaust gases from both manifolds run through it. The muffler causes the gases to travel 48 additional feet before being released.

Railroad Chiefs

Considered at Conference This Week
BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York — Further wage cuts and drastic economies are to be considered by the country's most important railway executives at a meeting expected to be held in Chicago this week.

Presidents of the principal eastern carriers met in New York last week and, although no formal statement was issued, it was understood the payroll question was touched on and the decision taken.

As all the railroad labor parties to the existing wage pact, the eastern presidents decided to call a general meeting with the officials of south-eastern and western unions at Chicago to settle the matter.

improved their returns by 100, or winter, most of the harvests are in the condition it is not known "where the new steel is coming from." The Reconstruction Finance Corporation and military provided some financial relief in interest on the loans. The unions in the steel industry are in a rather pessimistic attitude as far as labor issues are now concerned. R.M. officials claim not only must they again raise wages and salaries, but that all other operating costs must be cut down to the bone.

Just when the new wage reduction employees who is asked to take has not yet been determined. Twenty-one unions "tentatively" accepted a 16 per cent reduction from standard rates about six months ago. Last May, the latest month on which the average wage rate was based, the average compensation per employee was around 134 per cent less than a year ago.

While the organized railway crafts may be asked again to sacrifice a percentage of their earnings, it is reported the higher salary brackets of the unorganized employees may suffer the most. It is said the unions plan to use the Interstate Commerce commission's report on the big salaries paid high officials of the railroad as an argument against further reduction of their own wages.

change was 4000 and prices were fluctuating. The American stock market went down following Mr. Waller's speech on Saturday, but prices were maintained to rally on hope of a favorable outcome of the American reconstruction program. Gilt-edged securities were strong on expectation of a good report regarding the depression outcome. The time was firm.

Berlin—There, on the Boers were pleased with the government's energetic stand regarding Hitler. The tendency remained firm at the close although business was restricted by the Catholic holiday.

Paris-Bourse closed, assumption day holiday.

UBANGI SAVAGES TRAVEL WITH CIRCUS

A tribe of the strangest people ever presented to civilization will be seen in Oshkosh when the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus exhibits next Thursday afternoon and night at the Winnebago County Fair grounds.

The tribe are Ubangi savages from the depths of darkest Africa who have saucer-like lips that are almost as large as those of a crocodile.

The custom of distending the lips of the women of the Ubangi tribe originated many years ago and was adopted by the men of the tribe to protect their women from slave-traders and rival tribesmen. The Ubangi warriors decided that they would make their women unattractive to any but themselves. The lip distention was caused by cutting the lips when the girls were mere infants and then inserting a wooden disk into the wound. As the lips began to grow, larger disks were inserted from time to time.

Soon the women of the tribe began to look upon the lip distention as a mark of beauty and rivalry soon existed among them to see who could develop the largest lips.

According to their quaint standards of beauty, the tribe presented by the big circus are prize-winning beauties of the highest Ubangi order.

The Ubangis are from the French Congo, and under the rule of the French government. A few years ago the French officials put a ban on the lip-distention and the practice has been discontinued.

Besides the Ubangis, there are many other foreign features which are entirely new this season, among them being Bombay, the Man from India, and Tamara, a beautiful Russian aerialist.
